Promotion and Communication – Health and Wellbeing

Correct information from trusted and reliable sources is really important when promoting health and wellbeing, and providing advice to the public. There is a concern that industry associated information may be utilised to engage and communicate in relation to health and wellbeing. This poses a threat as it may endorse products or activities that run contrary to the agreed Department of Health and HSE policies and implementation plans. It is vital therefore, that all partners with HSE, Sláintecare Healthy Communities and Healthy Ireland are familiar with, and utilise only trusted sources of information.

Please see below the key policy documents from the main health and wellbeing areas and the respective trusted and reliable sources of information in green that are endorsed and recommended and those that should be avoided in red. This information is relevant for all initiatives and projects funded by, or associated with, HSE, Sláintecare Healthy Communities and Healthy Ireland.
